Your On-Site Real Estate Team at Hershey's Mill

Our experienced team has sold more homes in Hershey's Mill than any other, and has been doing so since 1978. No other agency captures buyer interest like our on-site office provides.

In a complex market, it takes more than a basic listing to achieve your goals. So when you need market information, are planning to sell, or looking to purchase, we invite you to stop in at the only full service real estate office at Hershey's Mill. Selling homes here is our only business.

We are located at the Main Gate, and open 7 days a week, so you can meet with an agent when it is convenient for you.

I am sure that most of us can remember the severity of the weather we experienced last winter and the resulting power outages. Though winter is may lose electricity. While most outages last two or three hours, a few have lasted for more than 24 hours. During power outages lasting any length of time, the Security Department receives dozens of phone calls from residents not scheduled to officially arrive for at least another month and a half, the following information will help you prepare for any instance where you may lose power, regardless of the season.

Be Prepared For A Power Outage

From time to time, usually during inclement weather, Hershey's Mill villages and the surrounding community who find themselves inconvenienced or even in emergency situations that could be prevented with some advance planning. Listed below are a few suggestions that can better prepare people for a power outage:

- When the power is out, most automatic garage door openers will not operate. For those residents with detached garages, be sure you know how to operate your emergency door release.
- Keep plenty of flashlights around the house, and keep extra batteries at hand for all of them. It's important to have them near when needed.
- Turn off any appliances that you were using when the power went off. When the power goes out unexpectedly, a person may have been using their stove, heating pad, or other device that requires monitoring. A person might leave the house and forget that these items were left turned on. If the person is not at home when the power is restored, these items may begin to operate again without any supervision, causing a fire hazard.

Please call PECO at 1-800-494-4000 to report that your power is out and for all outage-related questions, as PECO requires that account holders report their problem directly and does not provide the Security Department with any more information than they give to residents. When the Security Department is inundated with calls regarding a power outage, the phone line is then tied up; and residents who are calling with security-related issues or emergencies cannot get through.

If you have available a smart phone or tablet with a data plan, you can visit the PECO website at www.peco.com and report your outage via the "Report An Outage" link on the page. Also, PECO provides an "outage map" on its site; and this allows customers to see where reported outages are located, how many people are affected, and the time by which the outage should be repaired.

- Keep a charged cell phone somewhere in your house. Providing that phone and cable service have not gone out along with the electricity, Verizon customers will continue to receive phone service and Comcast Phone customers should have phone service for 6-8 hours before the backup battery in their modem expires.
- If you are dependent on any life-saving electrical devices (such as oxygen pumps, medical monitors, etc.), please contact your medical supply company to discuss options for a backup power supply.

We're approaching that time of year when many HM residents migrate from the frozen tundra of West Chester to the warmth of the Sunshine state. Here are a few suggestions gleaned from fellow snowbirds – and lessons learned from past mistakes.

- 1 Stop newspapers and other scheduled deliveries.
- 2 Forward your mail – or not. I find it takes an average of 7-8 days to forward mail from 19380 to 32962 (Vero Beach, FL). Instead, buy some USPS Priority Mail envelopes for about $5.85 and ask a neighbor to

- 4 Turn off your water. The main valve location varies, but in most cases it is a short pipe that comes into your basement on the wall closest to the street. Twist the valve (gently) collect your mail and send it to your snowbird address. That way you can get the Guide and Digest and other magazines that the post office does not forward.

Top-Ten List for a Great Winter

- 3 Go to Amazon.com and purchase a Thermo Cube C-3 for about $11. You plug the cube into any standard outlet. Next, you plug a lamp (with a red compact fluorescent bulb) into it and place it in a window visible to neighbors. If your heat fails, the cube will turn on the lamp when your house temperature drops to 35°F. I set my thermostat to 49°F while I'm away. When your neighbor sees the light, they can call you so that you can arrange to have your heater serviced.

clockwise to turn off. Next, turn off your hot water heater; it's in your service panel and is a twin breaker. Also, disconnect any garden hoses and open the faucet by turning it counter clockwise.

- 5 Contact Hershey's Mill Security and fill out a Vacant Premises card.
- 6 Driving to Florida? If you are stressed by the I-95 insanity from here to Richmond, try I-81 instead. Yes, it adds 80 miles to your trip but I found it still takes 3 hours less to Vero Beach – especially travelling northbound. The fall foliage is beautiful on the southbound trip, and the spring equally beautiful northbound. If you have a smartphone, get the Google Maps app. It will give you real-time traffic information and actually instruct you to get off the interstate if there is a backup ahead.

- 7 Tired of driving? Believe it or not, winter months are off season for Florida flights. As of this writing, I am seeing flights on Southwest for $62 one way. I hear car transport services to Florida are about $500. There is also the Autotrain from Lorton, VA to Sanford, FL.
- 8 If you have a television HD box from Comcast, don't pay $19.95 or more per month while you are away. Call a month in advance and they will drop the HD service and charge just $5 per month; and you don't have to disconnect or return the box.

- 9 If you are like us, the only reason we have a landline phone is that Hershey's Mill Security requires it. Check out Verizon's Ultra Call Forwarding. It costs $6 per month, and you can redirect calls from any of your phones to any other you have.
- 10 Moochers. Have you noticed since you bought that condo in your little slice of paradise that friends and relatives have surfaced? Donate the bed in your second bedroom to Goodwill and replace it with a snake in an aquarium. If you have Facebook friends who you would really rather block, just wait until the weather in West Chester is below 30 with ice and snow and send them a photo of you on the beach enjoying your favorite adult beverage – and they will unfriend you.

With two great passions, horses and modeling, Kate Moore has created an exciting and interesting life! Growing up in Chicago on “the wrong side of the tracks,” Kate yearned for glamour and at the same time had a love of horses (which she began riding at the age of seven). Her father, who was in the fashion industry, helped her get her first modeling job when she was 16. However, he wanted her to have a college education; which her two older sisters did not have. She graduated with honors from Loyola University in 1987 with a degree in marketing.

After college, Kate lived a “highly driven life” in Palm Beach, Florida, dividing her time between the glamorous world of fashion and the quiet, calming world of horses. As she explains, “When I walked into the barn, everything would just quiet down.” Horses were a soothing counter-balance to the exciting world of modeling. For Kate, modeling was both exhilarating and exhausting! She worked for the Ford and Elite modeling agencies and was a runway model for Michael Korrs, Donna Karan, Ralph Lauren, Isaac Mizrahi, and Nina McLemore (Hillary Clinton’s designer). She worked in New York, and even traveled to Milan, Italy, during her runway modeling career. She was quickly caught up in the high-fashion lifestyle; not eating, being told she was “fat,” having her body being constantly measured, and living on a liquid diet. She became, as she puts it, “rack and bone” but got used to it. Today, she has many health problems as a result of her modeling days including bone issues, arthritis, and digestive problems. She showed me scars on her feet from undergoing three surgeries as a result of years of stress and abuse to her bones and tendons. She vows she will never wear heels again!

Kate took a well-deserved vacation in 2007 to Bayhead, on the Jersey Shore, with some girlfriends, where she met her future husband Fred. They were married in May, 2008 in West Palm Beach, Florida. She is, as she declares, “blessed by a loving husband,” who works for the Federal Reserve Bank in Philadelphia. Fred was formerly an investment banker in Chicago and New York, traveling the world working for BNP Paribas, a leader in global banking and financial services.

After marrying, Kate left Florida to begin the next chapter of her life in Pennsylvania, where she got a job at QVC. She and Fred purchased a charming row house in South Philly. They enjoyed living in the area and had great neighbors who looked after each other. However, after a few years the neighborhood began to change and Kate and Fred didn’t always feel safe.

said “Hershey’s Mill.” Kate and Fred decided against Marshalltown, went home, called a real estate agent, and looked at several homes in Hershey’s Mill. When they saw 229 Chatham, Fred pulled Kate aside and said “This is it!” They sold their South Philly home in a day and have been living happily at Hershey’s Mill ever since!

Kate is very happy to be working at QVC, although it can be hectic and stressful behind the scenes working

Meet Kate Moore

Chatham

Working at QVC, which is broadcast live 24 hours a day, Kate worked crazy hours. She would often come home at 3am and not be able to find a parking space near her home. One time, while out walking, Kate and her dogs were attacked by a pit bull. They decided it was time to get out of the city.

How did they end up at Hershey’s Mill? They found a “Gentleman’s Farm” in Marshalltown with a beautiful old house near the Four Dogs Tavern. When Kate and Fred asked the owners why they were moving, they explained that they were tired of all the work involved in taking care of the house and property. This made sense to Kate, and she asked them where they were moving to. They on a continuous, 24-hours-a-day live show! “You have to check your ego at the door!” QVC was founded in 1986 by Joseph Segel, an entrepreneur who saw an opportunity to create a new and engaging shopping experience through television broadcasts. He named the company to represent its three guiding principles: Quality, Value and Convenience. QVC wants to have a good relationship with the public.

Kate models hair and aging products for numerous clients. She is grateful to be living in Hershey’s Mill, only five minutes away from the QVC studio. During a TSV (Today’s Special Value) sale, she can work up to 24 hours in a stretch. She is able to go home between live appearances and rest, and often invites other Four Years.

We lived in South Philly.

if they have reached their sales goals and target audience.

How does Kate unwind from her intense job at QVC? With horses of course! Kate has been riding and caring for horses since she was a child in Chicago; where she had to take a bus to the nearest riding stables. Her first riding mentor was Olympic equestrian champion Robert Dover, who is the most honored dressage rider in the United States, and has been inducted into the U.S. Dressage Federation Hall of Fame. In 2013, in Palm Beach, she rode competitively for the USDF, and has also participated locally in the Devon Horse Show. Dressage, a French term most commonly translated to mean "training," is a competitive sport defined by the International Equestrian Federation as "the highest expression of horse training" where horse and rider are expected to perform from memory a series of predetermined movements. Its purpose is to develop a horse's natural athletic ability and willingness to perform, thereby maximizing its potential as a riding horse. Kate now spends much of her free time at Blue Hill Farm, a full service training facility located on 75 acres in Unionville; owned and operated by three-time Olympian Jessica Ransenhousen and her daughter Missy. Blue Hill offers boarding for horses along with riding lessons and programs in dressage. She recently attended the Plantation Field Horse Trials in Unionville; grooming horses and assisting riders.

Kate enjoys being part of the volunteer work at Blue Hill Farm, and spending time there riding "Simply Harry" (her favorite horse). Harry is very sweet, and has been her buddy for three years. He is very friendly, like "a dog with hooves," and he weighs 1,500 pounds! I asked Kate for advice on horseback riding for an adult amateur like myself, and she advised me that horses are living creatures – often unpredictable. You have to protect yourself, and be aware of all situations when riding. A little fear is healthy!

Kate loves living at Hershey's Mill! She feels very safe here and has met many friendly, fun people. She loves to walk her dogs, Victoria and Henry James, on the beautiful walking trails; and has met many fellow dog owners that way, even sharing the same groomer who makes house calls here! She enjoys the social life too; having recently attended a progressive party with her neighbors in Chatham. They had so much fun swapping recipes that they plan to have another party soon!

Kate is a fascinating person with a full and rewarding life; blending and balancing her passions! I enjoyed getting to know her and hope you did too!

If you have lived here for a while, you are probably familiar with the location of 30 Main. First it was a hardware store, then a Stouffer's outlet (this I remember), then Baxter's Restaurant, and now 30 Main. If you recall Baxter's, the décor will be familiar with the cozy wood trim and booths still remaining; but the walls have been changed to brick, giving it a more sophisticated and warmer feeling.

Owner Michael DiDominico, is a very personable young man. Commercial real estate is his "game," but he has always wanted to own a restaurant and always knew just what he wanted it to be. 30 Main has been open for almost a year; and a few months ago he found the chef for whom he had been searching. Chef Mark Ztevis has had 15 years of experience at the Four Seasons, so he comes with major credentials. The dinner the three of us had did not disappoint; it was delicious.

Michael DiDominico is altruistic in his own way. He gives back to the community through his food. A percentage of his profits go to local youth sports teams and churches. He also provides prix fixe meals on occasion for these institutions.

He considers his fare to be creative, contemporary American. He is also conscious of the dietary needs of diners. There are a number of gluten-free and vegetarian choices on the menu. You can notify the server of any dietary needs prior to ordering.

The menus (lunch, brunch and dinner) have many selections, so the choice is wide. One could surely find something pleasing to his or her palate. And if you love mussels, you are in luck. They are available (served with your choice of a white wine and fennel sauce, marinara, or blue cheese and bacon) every evening for $13, or on Thursdays as an "all you can eat!"

30 Main has now received many awards. It was voted Best Mussels of The Main Line; Best of the Main Line Happy Hour; winner of the Diner's Choice, and Best of the Main Line – all in their first year.

Brunch is now available Tuesdays through Saturdays from 11am to 3pm and Sundays from 10am to 3pm; with live jazz on Sundays. The lunch and brunch menus are the same; including egg dishes, burgers, and sandwiches. An innovation is a breakfast pizza made with your choice of meat, scrambled eggs, and cheese. Country ham, Florentine, and crab cake Benedicts all served with home fries are just "up my alley." Other breakfast dishes are available. Lunch dishes include burgers accompanied with additional items; shrimp po'boy (beer battered with chipotle remoulade); and a grilled brie, shaved turkey sandwich.

I can't imagine that one would want anything more than there is on the dinner menu. My favorite part is the small plates – the perfect amount of food. All three of us chose from this section. I had grilled lollipop New Zealand lamb over sautéed spinach, mashed potato and lamb glacé. Jack had house-smoked, baby back ribs tossed with a choice of buffalo, honey BBQ, or sweet chili lime. Our friend had a Burrata made from mozzarella and cream served with a marinated heirloom tomato salad. Calamari is also a small plate and house favorite.

Other dishes available are pizzas – try fig with prosciutto, gorgonzola and a balsamic reduction. Lobster bisque is always available and receives rave reviews. Salads, entrées, burgers and sandwiches round out the dinner menu. Some entrées include sesame encrusted tuna; exotic mushroom risotto; Norwegian salmon; cioppino; a half rack of New Zealand lamb; osso-buco; or filet mignon.

Hours are Sundays from 10am to 10pm, Mondays from 5pm to 10pm, Tuesdays through Thursdays from 11am to midnight, and Fridays and Saturdays from 11am to 2am. You can enjoy music almost every night after the dinner hours.

Michael DiDominico has real passion for his restaurant and is eager to please. I think you will enjoy "a bite" here.

Is there greater appreciation for the game when you walk? It is a debatable issue, but for those who like walking, here are three basic strategies.

The first is that you can adjust your bag. Try playing with less clubs; take out some woods or irons. For instance, only use the odd numbered clubs and then switch to the evens for another round.

Tips For Golfers Walking The Mill

And of course, you can always get a lighter bag. Many of today's bags have adjustable dual straps that balance the weight and make walking easier and mostly hands free.

The second is you can always go to a trolley; or as they call it here in America a pull (or push) cart. They even have motorized ones nowadays. The trolley is the strategy of choice in Britain and through much of Europe. This is particularly good if you are prone to back problems.

The third is that there are ways to adjust your walking when riding in a cart; or a buggy as they call it across the pond. A couple strategies are to find a cart "buddy."

They could be your spouse or just someone with whom you play a lot of golf. One of you will walk nine while

Golf Tip

An issue I hear a lot from my students is how to better deal with those 1st tee jitters; especially with the amount of tournaments here at the Mill. First of all, be sure to warm up. Try not to run to the 1st tee from the parking lot. If you don't have time for some swings at the range, put a tee in the ground, away from the teeing ground, and make some swings over an imaginary ball.

Then, when it's your turn to hit, take a deep breath, relax your grip, forearms and shoulders, and start the swing with a slow, deliberate takeaway only concentrating on making solid contact. Above all, you must try and resist the urge to overpower the shot. If you do that, you'll be off and running with a great tee ball and the nerves will disappear.

the other rides and then you switch. Or allow your buddy to take the cart on the path and you walk straight down the fairway; later switching off. Fortunately for us, the Mill is a walking friendly course.

There are lots of ways to enjoy the game walking and these few tips may help you. Many golfers today are looking for the health advantages of playing golf. One recent study shows that a round is comparable to an average 45 minute fitness class. Other research shows that by walking and carrying your bag for 18 holes you will burn, on average, 2,000 calories. Recently a friend measured an entire walking round at the Mill as being just over five miles. One might note that riding in a cart burns about 1,200 calories on average. So there you have it; some easy ways and a reason to enjoy walking the Mill. Have fun.

MERMAIDS AND MERMEN

*Lee Lipstein | Jefferson
Sandy Loose | Yardley*

To our Mermaids and Mermen, thank you all for a wonderful summer at the pool. It was great to have so many new faces in our class this year and especially to have some men join us. We sadly miss the friends who are no longer with us, but they will always be in our thoughts.

Mother Nature was good to us this year, so we only had to cancel a couple of classes due to weather. It was also nice to have the extra two weeks in the spring giving us an early start. Now that our 2015 season is over, and for those of you who are heading south, we wish you a warm and wonderful winter and please keep exercising. To the non-snowbirds, our best to you; hopefully you will be able to get in some “mermaid activity.”

Our thanks to Barbara Werner and her committee who did a great job with our end-of-season brunch. Also, Barb, your original and clever poem was a big hit enjoyed by all. So until we get together in the spring, keep well and let’s keep in touch with news of our mermaids. All our best, Lee and Sandy.

tied down to home and property maintenance. Our Village Council members and those on the Master Association work hard to maintain and upgrade our community and its amenities. To all of you, and the many volunteers who offer their time and talents, we say “thank you.”

Year to date, through the end of September, 66 homes have sold and settled. Total sales are just over 23 million dollars. These homes were on the market an average of 38 days. In addition, there are 10 homes that are under contract as of this same period. Most of these are scheduled for settlement by the end of November, with one to settle the first week of December.

At present, there are 46 homes on the active market plus two that are under contract and have contingences that are being completed. While this number is higher than in recent years, it is important to remember that homes vary significantly in price; from $139,000 for a small one bedroom home to $629,000 for a large home with a family room and loft as well as a 2-car attached garage. Since price, location, features upgrades, and condition differ with each buyer’s “wants and needs,” not all of these 46 would be a seller’s competition. Of interest, the average sale price for a home here in the Mill is in the $360,000s.

So if selling is on your mind, it is a good time to work towards that goal; and please tell your friends about our fabulous lifestyle so they too can enjoy themselves.

Windows 10 has many more ways to track your web surfing than previous Windows versions. Through the use of cookies, targeted advertisements can arrive and be displayed. Targeted ads are based on the Web sites you have visited. However, Windows 10 allows you to control this type of advertising.

Controlling your privacy is easy in Windows 10. Click the 4-pane white icon in the lower left corner of the Desktop screen. Click Settings just above the icon. Click Privacy, then General, and turn off "Let Apps use my advertising ID." Also, turn off "Send Microsoft info about how I write" and "Let websites provide locally relevant content." Microsoft has an opt-out selection for ads website that you can visit to control ads. Visit <https://choice.microsoft.com/en-us/opt-out> and choose to turn off the two available selections. Be sure to sign in to turn off the middle box choice. Do this for each browser you have installed. The new Microsoft Edge browser does not save your choice. When using Edge, you must reset the opt-out choice each time you open the Edge browser, if you choose to do so. I'm not a fan of this browser for this and other reasons.

Another of the areas that could be of concern is a new item called Wi-Fi Sense. This is turned on by default and provides web access to visitors coming into your home. It works automatically by sharing your encrypted router password with your visitor and your password protected router. Your visitors never see your password but they must use a Windows 10 device for this to work. I think it's very handy for those of you that have Comcast modem/routers that have those long passwords. If all of this bothers you, you can turn it off. In Settings, go to Network & Internet, click Wi-Fi, and then click Manage Wi-Fi settings. Turn off "Connect to open hotspots" and "Connect to networks." Just below is another area called Wi-Fi Services. Turn that off unless you plan to use paid-for hotspots.

Microsoft has allowed other ways to receive updates and system files for your computer. Instead of the tradi-ers that have the necessary files that your computer needs. If this bothers you, and it should, then turn it off by going to Settings, Update & Security, Windows Update, Advanced Options and click "Choose how updates are delivered." Click to turn off.

I've covered the more important areas of Windows 10 privacy; however, there are many more under the Privacy category. Many are self-explanatory and have accompanying information.

PC Club meetings are open to all regardless of experience. If you have questions that need answering, be sure to attend on the third Tuesday of each month at 7pm upstairs in the Community Center. We are now covering Windows 10.

FRIENDS OF SULLIVAN HOUSE

Ann Gunn | Jefferson

As the last days of summer blessed us with a beautiful September evening, Sue and Jim DiCarlo of Yardley Village, the winners of the Gourmet Dinner Raffle, celebrated their good fortune at the Sullivan House.

Sue and Jim invited eight lucky family members and friends to join them at the historic Sullivan House for the gourmet dinner they created next year. Looking at the photographs of the evening, can't you just see yourself with your own group there next year?

You might be wondering what is FoSH? We are a core working, fundraising committee consisting of 13 Hershey's Mill residents who have the passion to support and increase community awareness and utilization of the Sullivan House by raising funds. We will be present at the Sullivan with Brandywine Catering. The evening kicked off with a gathering on the patio followed by a five-course gourmet dinner in the beautiful dining room. In the words of Jim DiCarlo, "Food was great, wine was great, service was great. You could not have done anything better."

This event was so successful that Friends of Sullivan House (FoSH) is thinking of holding a Gourmet Dinner Raffle again

Gourmet Dinner Raffle Winners

House Open House and Railroad event scheduled for December 6. Please plan on stopping by to say hello and enjoy cookies, punch and FoSH events. Also, watch future Guide and Digest editions for upcoming FoSH fundraising event dates and details.

Ah yes, fall is upon us; but if you think that HMSG is going on vacation, think again. Take a look at our listing and see the activities that are available.

Since the weather is about to change, Paddle is the sport of the month. Paddle, for those who are not familiar with it, is played outdoors in the winter. The colder the better!

There is nothing more invigorating than a cold winter evening, where you can see your breath, the snowflakes falling, and you are breaking a sweat playing Paddle. For those who have played Pickleball, Racquetball, Squash, or Tennis, this is your "sport of the season" all winter long. Our courts are located behind the swimming pool with a lighted walkway leading to them. For those who do not have equipment, there are paddles and balls in a cabinet along the walkway. The paddle is similar to a Pickleball paddle, just a little larger and a bit heavier. The ball is a solid rubber ball that, when cold, does not bounce very much. When warm it is more like a "super" ball! For this reason, many facilities keep balls in freezers until put in play. When it snows, the courts have what we call "snow boards" to allow clearing the snow to the ground below.

When first learning to play the game, it plays much like Pickleball, keeping

One big difference is, as you progress, screens are used on most shots and the game slows down.

During the winter months the Mermaid Cove is available and heated (you may have to find someone with a key, however). It is important to stay warm while waiting for a court. Cold muscles injure easier than warm ones.

These days, it is considered offensive to mimic American Indians and their culture. Yet in an earlier era, the Improved Order of Red Men, a national secret benevolent society with links to this region, took delight in masquerading as “Indians.” The group, with the motto “Freedom-Friendship-Charity,” peaked during the second decade of the 20th century, when enrollment reached about 500,000 and assets exceeded $10 million.

In this area, “tribes” existed in Norristown, Telford and Green Lane. Typically, these chapters had their own meeting hall, called “wigwams,” that were rented out to the public for parties, receptions or lectures. Only the inner sanctum, the room where the Red Men conducted their secret rites, was closed to the public.

According to information in the library of the Historical Society of Montgomery County, tradition holds that the origins of the Red Men go back to a group of US Army volunteers defending Fort Mifflin in 1813. The men were looking to develop a secret society that was indigenous to the United States, the story goes, and based their society on Indian lore.

The first tribe of Red Men was formed in Baltimore in 1847. Growth was slow, and it was not until the turn of the century that the membership began to expand. Members had to be “male, of good moral character, sound in mind and body, and have a belief in the Great Spirit.” As with many secret societies, the Red Men had various ranks within the organization. In keeping with the American Indian theme, these were scout, brave, warrior, sagemore, sannah, sachem and prophet.

At first, local churches mistrusted the group because it was secret and not related to Christianity. But in time, as pillars of the community joined, the opposition was overcome.

“The Red Men was basically a benevolent society for its membership. It offered insurance benefits that covered widows, orphans, the disabled, and funeral expenses for those who died.

As such, the members were constantly raising money,” said Abe Roan of the Goschenhopen Historians of Green Lane. “Those were needs not met by either the government or the private sector at the time,” Roan said.

Fund-raising involved dinners, parties and picnics, which also served as social outlets for members and their families. The local tribe’s hall served as the center of many such activities.

Among the more notable of those buildings in the area is the Red Men’s Hall in Green Lane, built in 1906. Local folklore holds that the building site was a burial ground for African American slaves who worked in the nearby mills during the late 18th century.

Many of the Red Men were armed-service veterans interested in promoting patriotism and respect for the American flag. They did this by making public appearances at parades, dedications and community rallies, wearing Indian dress and carrying flags, accompanied by their own band and drill teams.

As the 20th century advanced, the automobile and the movies began to erode the social activities of the Red Men. And the new veterans’ groups that emerged from World War I took over many of the group’s public activities. By the middle of the century, the benevolent aspect of the Red Men had been replaced by government and corporate medical and retirement benefits.

Roan said he believes there are still a few scattered tribes of the Improved Order of Red Men around the country.

RECIPES

If you like to decorate with uncarved pumpkins, toasting the seeds after is delicious, healthy, and quick to do. Some seeds come clean from the goo easier than others, but taste great whether pristine or not. Toasted seeds can be stored for a few days in an airtight container, or about a week if refrigerated. Once you get the hang of the basics, the flavor choices are endless!

Toasted Seeds

Smoky, Spicy & Sweet

- 1 egg white
- 2 drops liquid hickory smoke
- ¼ cup light brown sugar
- ½ teaspoon cayenne pepper
- ¼ teaspoon smoked paprika
- ½ teaspoon fine grained sea salt
- 1 cup fresh pumpkin seeds

Preheat oven to 375°F. In a bowl, whisk all but seeds, then add seeds and coat well. Spread seeds on a lightly buttered baking sheet, and bake until seeds are golden (~12 minutes).

Butter & Chai Tea

Gee (clarified butter) may be substituted for that authentic far east flavor.

- 1 teaspoon dry chai tea
- ¼ cup unsalted butter, melted
- ½ teaspoon fine grained sea salt
- 1 cup fresh pumpkin seeds

Preheat oven to 375°F. Use a mortar and pestle to grind the tea to a fine powder.

In a bowl, whisk all but seeds, then add seeds and coat well. Spread seeds on a lightly buttered baking sheet, and bake until seeds are golden (~12 minutes).

Parmesan & Garlic

- 1 teaspoon finely chopped garlic
- ¼ teaspoon garlic powder
- ¼ cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1½ tablespoons finely grated Parmesan
- ½ teaspoon fine grained sea salt
- 1 cup fresh pumpkin seeds
