TECHNOLOGY TIPS

Don Trauger | Kennett

Malwarebytes is a free anti-malware program. If you have it installed, the program should update itself automatically to the latest version 3.6.1. By the time you read this, the version number may be higher.

This program will detect and remove most malware that anti-virus programs miss. It's available at malwarebytes.com. Open your web browser and type malwarebytes.com in the address field and press the "Enter" key. Click the "Free Download" button at the

After you have deactivated the license, updating Malwarebytes free is manual. Click the tiny "up chevron" on the Taskbar (Windows 10) and double click the blue "M". When Malwarebytes opens, click the "Scan Now" button to start a system scan. This will also update Malwarebytes before commencing the scan. You can also click the Desktop Malwarebytes icon to perform the update and scan as described above. Scanning should be done weekly or as needed.

Other program options can be found when you click "Settings" and by clicking the tabs at the top. However, I find upper right of the Malwarebytes window to download. It comes with a 14 day free trial of its premium features.

Malwarebytes Version 3.6.1

Double click the "mb3-setup-consumer" file in your Downloads folder to install it. When the window opens click "Advanced Options" at the bottom and put a check next to "Create a desktop shortcut". Next, click "Agree and Install" and click "Finish" when the installation is complete. Click the "X" at the top of the pop-up window to close it which explains the 14 day free trial that starts now. Although Malwarebytes comes with the 14 day free trial, I recommend that you select the free version. To select the free version, click "Settings", then "Account Details" at the top and click "Deactivate Premium Trial". The reason for this is that Malwarebytes protection can interfere with your anti-virus program.

that the factory settings are appropriate for most users.

AdwCleaner, another anti-malware product, is a great compliment to Malwarebytes. It's good to have another assessment tool on your system and it's also available from the Malwarebytes webpage, malwarebytes.com/products/, in the lower right hand corner. Double click the AdwCleaner download button to open it and then click "Scan Now". Follow any screen prompts. There is no formal installation.

Please come to the PC Club meetings. We'll show you how to install and run Malwarebytes and AdwCleaner. Also, there will be time for your general questions. We meet on the third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Ardmore Room on the first floor of the Community Center.

Not everyone in Hershey's Mill has one significant "claim to fame", but we all have a story. I so enjoyed my recent conversation with Joanne Collins. We chatted on the patio of her beautiful Springton home, situated on the third fairway, and simply got to know each other. As she told her story, it became evident that she is a dedicated wife and business partner with her husband, Rich, of 41 years, devoted mother and grandmother, former teacher, competitive bridge and golf player, and faithful Bible study lecturer.

Joanne in her happy place
- golf [of] course!

How about we start at the top? Joanne and Rich met on a blind date following the wedding of Joanne's childhood friend, who happened to be Greek. Joanne was a brides' maid and Rich was a wedding guest. A year after the "big, fat Greek wedding", Joanne's words, not mine, she and Rich were reacquainted and began dating. They married in 1977, each with seven year old daughters present from previous marriages. Joanne stayed home to raise the girls in their North Wilmington home. During that time, Joanne left her high school English and French teaching careers and instead engaged in part-time jobs tutoring in those fields, leading aerobics classes and developing Bible study lectures for churches in Newark and Wilmington.

In their leisure time, Joanne and Rich participated in Tournament Bridge. Often their annual vacations revolved around competition sites in the USA, Canada and Bermuda. In fact, Joanne mentioned that her four-woman bridge team won the Women's Swiss in Bermuda in 1979. Joanne's interest in the game led her to offering classes in bridge, first for her neighbors in Springton, then to all interested HM residents and finally to our Community competitive teams. Joanne continues to play bridge although the couple, after an 11-year run, stopped playing competitively due to obligations in their business.

Roofing Resources, Inc., located in Kennett Square, still occupies much of their time. They specialize in roofing and water proofing. Rich, Vice President, developed the roofing consulting and engineering firm and, since 1991, Joanne, CEO, has served as the majority partner and administrator. In them, among other places, to California, Wisconsin, Ireland, England, and the Abaco and Cayman Islands. In past years they've won First Gross in the Husband/Wife Championship. This year they were third. Not too shabby considering Joanne was counting the days until her hip replacement. With that behind her now, they should be formidable contenders next year.

Throughout the marriage relationship and business responsibilities, the mid 90's, through Rich's foresight, the company earned the contract to restore condemned schools in Washington, DC. This successful project led to other government contracts – especially with US embassies. To date, the Collins' company has fulfilled foreign US Embassy contracts through the state department in Nicaragua, Dublin, Australia and soon Budapest. Joanne, Rich and their many talented, loyal employees are grateful to be celebrating the business's 30th anniversary next June.

Joanne enthusiastically added that, during their 29 years of work in the business, the couple found another recreational outlet for their competitive energy. Rich introduced Joanne to the game of golf. For this, she is eternally grateful. She loves golf! As in their bridge tournament years, they successfully competed with local and traveling golf teams. Golf matches took

Joanne remains loyal and supportive of her family and their needs. For about two and a half years, both Joanne and Rich's fathers lived with them due to health issues. This occurred when their own children were out on their own. Rich's daughter, Dana, after earning her degree at Goldey Beacom College, settled in Maryland and works for the Maryland State Department. Joanne's daughter, Kelly, attended Penn State and became an actress/business women. This winter, she'll be appearing in the new Hallmark Christmas movie. She's raising four children; two boys and two girls - all active in show business. Three of the four appeared in the Walking Dead. Her youngest grandson actually attended the Emmy's this year and walked the red carpet for his participation in "The Alienist", which was nominated for best limited series. Occasionally when one of the grandchildren required a guardian on the set, Joanne would accept the responsibility. She was pleasantly surprised to be

To relax and partially escape business responsibilities, Joanne and her husband spend extended periods of time at their home in Naples, Florida. They especially enjoy golfing with the folks they have come to know and love there over the past twenty years. In The Mill, Joanne and Rich have a similar small group of friends who gather every holiday, alternating homes, for golf first and dinner afterwards. They so appreciate the value of strong community. They have witnessed, first hand, a group of people here who truly care and sacrifice for others. And that can certainly be said of Joanne.

DINING OUT

Sharon Kope | Robynwood

Do you like sushi? Do you ever have a craving for good sushi? Do you even know what sushi is?

Sushi is a Japanese dish of specially prepared vinegared rice, usually with some sugar and salt, combined with a variety of ingredients such as seafood and vegetables. Styles and presentation vary widely, but the key ingredient is "sushi rice" wrapped with dry seaweed.

With all that said, the thought of eating sushi was never something I wanted to try. Eventually I decided to try just the vegetable sushi and found out I really enjoyed it.

Several weeks ago, five of us went to Mino Japanese Restaurant and Sushi Bar on Route 30. You can order items as you would in any other restaurant. They also offer 'all you can eat' for a set price; definitely a 'better bang for your buck!' Their only requirement is that you eat all you order.

We ordered a varied assortment of sushi, which we shared, and went back for seconds and thirds.

Mino's, www.minosushi.com, is located at 321 Lancaster Avenue in Malvern. They are open seven days a week – Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturday from noon to 10 p.m.; and Sunday from noon to 9:30 p.m. You can dine in or take out. It is also BYOB.

For several reasons, I would recommend Mino's highly if you are in the mood for some good sushi. The restaurant is very bright and clean. The staff is very friendly and helpful. The price is right and it is very close to The Mill.

Joe Kennedy | Princeton

Like many artists, Thomas Hovenden painted people he knew. In doing so, the late 19th century local artist with a national reputation produced several works that were extraordinary for his time.

An Irishman who married into a prominent Quaker abolitionist family from Plymouth Meeting, Hovenden was among the first to paint African Americans not as caricatures but with sympathy and dignity.

During the 1880s, when his career was on the rise, Hovenden produced several remarkable story paintings portraying black Americans. Three of them are believed to portray Chloe and Sam Jones, neighbors of the artist in Plymouth Meeting, according to an exhibition brochure from the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. The couple were free people who came to Pennsylvania in 1849 from Maryland. Sam was a laborer; his wife, Chloe, worked at home raising their two children.

“Sunday Morning”, completed in 1881, shows an aged black couple in a room of their ramshackle home. Critic Patricia Hills, in her book The Painters’ America (1974), writes, “These old people are pictured as virtuous and content with their lot.”

In 1882, Hovenden completed two additional works with African American themes. The first, “Dem Was Good Ole Times”, shows an old man looking out at the viewer with a banjo resting on a chair. “Beneath a poor tattered coat there is a spirit full of compassion,” writes an unidentified critic in an exhibition pamphlet found in the library of the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. The second, “Chloe and Sam”, from the same year, depicts the everyday life of an elderly couple. According to the writer of an exhibition pamphlet, the painting “suggests hard work and character in the faces of the couple.”

The last painting with this black story theme was “The Last Moments of John Brown”, completed in 1884 to illustrate a John Greenleaf Whittier poem, John Brown of Ossawatimie.” Dramatic in nature, it shows the abolitionist John Brown under heavy guard on his way to his execution, kissing a black baby who is held by his mother.

During this period, Hovenden was elected to the National Academy of Design in 1882 and succeeded Thomas Eakins as instructor at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts.

Born in 1840 in Dunmanway, County Cork, Hovenden was orphaned at age six. At 14, he was apprenticed to a frame carver and gilder. Impressed with Hovenden’s skill, his master encouraged him to enroll in the Cork School of Design.

In 1863, Hovenden immigrated to New York City, where he studied at the National Academy of Design. Then, like many artists of the time, he studied art in Paris. While in France, he painted works on Breton peasant life. In Brittany, he also met Helen Corson, another art student. Corson came from one of the most prominent families in the Philadelphia region. Her father, Hiram Corson, was a leading medical doctor and uncompromising opponent of slavery.

When Hovenden returned to the United States in 1880, he and Corson married. The Plymouth Meeting barn that became his studio was once a stop on the Underground Railroad. His association with the Corson family undoubtedly was a factor that led him to paint African Americans with deep feeling.

Hovenden is best known for two works that are often cited in American art history books: Breaking Home Ties (1890) and Bringing Home the Bride (1893).

At age 55, he was struck and killed by a train in Plymouth Township while trying to rescue a child.

WOODSHOP UPDATE

Donna Faunce | Oakmont

With the new addition to the Woodshop under roof, the ongoing rains have had no effect on the overall finishing touches. The new space has been equipped with our wood-cutting machines with plenty of space between to navigate comfortably. A high ceiling and an abundance of lighting help to create an enticing work atmosphere which is a welcome change from previously. With a larger work area, we have been able to introduce a long, sought after piece of equipment; a radial arm saw, which fits in perfectly.

The original space is now undergoing a complete overhaul; new walls erected, storage cabinets and shelves installed, and additional work tables assembled. Our members have been eager to offer their time and skills each day, weekends included, to perform the jobs that would otherwise need to be contracted out. The work is indeed gratifying, knowing that the finished product will result in greater safety, efficiency, and productivity.

We want all to know that the Woodshop is STILL OPEN FOR BUSINESS and eager to restore your favorite furniture pieces. The date for our OPEN HOUSE is yet to be determined, so look for signs at the driveway entrance.

Heartfelt thanks to all who have contributed to our expansion. We know it is only with your financial support that we are able to reach our goal and your generosity is greatly appreciated. Please stop by the shop and view for yourselves our new space as we would welcome the opportunity to thank you personally and show you around.

"GRAND" IDEAS!

Gail Habbersett | Eaton

We think any time of day or season of the year, our grandchildren, who range in age from 4 to 17, enjoy putting together jigsaw puzzles. If all six of them happen to be here or maybe only one, the puzzle is always a big hit! Of course, the kids get to choose the tunes in the background and we provide their favorite snacks. If they don't finish the puzzle in a day – all the better – so they'll be back soon for another go of it.

REAL ESTATE NEWS

Lynne Carter | Kennett

Fall is in the “air” and all around us. This is the second busiest real estate market of the year. We are seeing continuing groups of buyers at Open Houses as well as buyers considering HERSHEY’S MILL as their next home. As you will note, those that sell quickly are CLEAN AND SPARKLING inside and outside, have a NEUTRAL décor and are NICELY FURNISHED, not too much furniture and NO CLUTTER. They are visually pleasing. The motto is “less is better than more”. When residents list their property, it is very important to remember it is a “HOUSE”, an asset, not your home any longer. Buyers will make it their new “HOME”. Emotionally, this is a challenging concept for Sellers to embrace.

Year to date, as of 9/30/2018, 96 properties have SOLD and SETTLED in Hershey’s Mill (per the Multiple Listing database). This is relatively consistent with results in 2017 at the same time period. These 96 houses were on the market an average of 9 weeks. The sold price averaged $370,000. These sales generated approximately $35 million in revenue. The data indicates that properties sold approximately 94% of the original asking price and 97 % of the most recent pricing prior to going under contract. Pricing realistically results in a quicker sale as you notice.

Currently, as of 9/30/2018, there are 42 properties actively on the market with 4 of these being shown while they are under contract. Prices range from $210,000 for a small, one bedroom to just over $600,000 for one of the larger houses. These properties are averaging 3-3 ½ months on the market with the asking price averaging $350,000. Additionally, 11 properties are SOLD and are awaiting settlement having completed most of the contingencies to the purchase. GOOD NEWS for these owners- the days on market was just 6-7 weeks.

Here’s to an outstanding year in 2018

Golf Tip

The key to a smooth putting stroke is a solid setup. A proper setup allows you to relax and swing the putter with good balance from start to finish. To insure this, have your hips over your heels so your weight is evenly set. Rest your eyes over the ball to give you the best view of the line. Next, position your hands directly under your shoulders so you can swing the putter naturally on the proper path. And finally, have the shaft of your putter match the line of your forearm. These setup keys should help you make more putts.

One might say, what do these two things have in common? One begets the other, that's what they have in common.

ing is an issue. If I recall from physics class, you cannot manufacture real estate, but you can better utilize it. So, if we build "up" we do not use any real estate, on the other hand, if we build a new building we do. Thus the logic is:

Table Tennis and Golf Carts

The HMSG and others are consistently looking for space for their activities. These include, but are not limited to, table tennis, billiards, exercise space, we add activity space, we add people, and we add the need for space for more parking, right? WRONG!

dog park, and parking for cars for those who take bus trips. When a second floor was proposed for the Recreation Building, Woodshop and renovating the Sullivan House garage, parking was a reason for the rejection. This was no more apparent than after the Recreation Center (pool) renovation.

The logic runs something like this: If we add space (floors), we add people which adds cars. Every time the issue of space for activities comes up, park-

Using the Villages in Florida as an example – "golf carts to the rescue". Did you know that between the entrance to the swimming pool and the stairs leading to the Community Center, we park 15 cars? Did you also know that 50 golf carts can fit in that same space?

Did you know that many of us, who have two cars, put less than 5,000 miles on them each year? Why so little? Because they are used to go to Giant and Rite Aid, and maybe an occasional trip to Exton or West Chesing lot that has so many uses. If we were a golf cart oriented community, the 15 to 50 ratio, as stated above, would have an immediate impact. If those who took bus trips used golf carts, there would be an immediate impact.

ter. The "family" car is used the rest of the time. Why can't we use a golf cart to go to Giant and Rite Aid? The answer is; it is illegal to take a cart out of "The Mill". Can that change? I would suggest it can and maybe the pipeline would pay for it.

Did you know there is a set of plans for using golf carts to go to Giant? Did you know that it was turned down because it would be considered dangerous for golf carts and cars to be in the same parking lot! Using this logic, it is even more dangerous for cars and pedestrians to be in the same parking lot! Let's outlaw pedestrians! Just think of the savings in gas, insurance, state inspection, license, maintenance and fumes if we had one car.

Now let's discuss the swimming pool parking lot issue; since this is the park-

If those who play tennis, pickleball and bocce used golf carts, there would be an immediate impact. If those who use the Recreation Center or Community Center used golf carts, there would be an immediate impact. The point being, there are many reasons to start the process of making "The Mill" golf cart oriented, not to mention the change in atmosphere; from a retirement community to a vacation oriented retirement community – "Play Where You Live."

Let's start by relining the parking lots: pool - replace 15 with 50; tennis/pickleball - 10 spots allocated for golf carts; Community Center - 20 spots. Make it convenient for golf cart users and as they say "build it and they will come".

By promoting the use of golf carts and bikes, we may find we have an abundance of parking places, not a shortage.

Now that we have solved the parking issue, let's move on to adding space for table tennis.

TENNIS

Don Evons | Princeton

Hershey's Mill tennis just completed its first USTA (United States Tennis Association) season. Not only was it mostly HM players, but our courts were classified as the "home courts". While for many it was a learning experience, it also set the stage for the 2019 season. We all learned a bit more about the rules and the level of competition. For those who are not familiar with the USTA, it is the organization which sponsors national competition at all levels and ages. The finals this year will be held in Phoenix, Arizona. Maybe next year we will make it!

Having our courts as home courts brings many outsiders. Most are amazed at our ambiance and facilities.

The 2018 bocce season has come to a successful ending. The winning team of Bob and Gerry Walsh were presented with individual trophies after the well-attended championship game. Our end-of-year social followed the game.

This year's participation almost doubled that of last year. We had two main goals: to meet and make friends with fellow players, and most importantly, to have FUN. From input I have received, we have achieved both of our goals.

Over the winter, stay tuned to articles in the Digest about next year. Hope you
